CONFIDENTIAL

For Ladies Only

You dear, confiding creatures that "can't see how" we make such low prices on millinery-we're going to let you into some of the secrets. These secrets put in print may reach envious eyes that would adopt our methods to their profits, but we are in the same position as the eminent physician who may have prescribed for your allments—the other doctors cannot rob him of his learning-neither could a competitor take from us our experience.

BUYING is our secret. Fifteen years of selling in the largest houses in New York, Chicago and St. Louis, where daily transactions sometimes exceeded in volume the annual business of this city, was a great field of learning. There are brighter people who could absorb more information in five years than we did in fifteen, but we have the fifteen years to

And This Is What It Has Led Up To:

Last week's purchases enable us to come before you with goods, up-to-date, in colorings, shapes and materials for less than a novice in buying is paying for them to sell again. For instance, a Paterson, N. J., manufacturer of ribbons, as the habit goes, wanted to clear his floors of all spring and summer goods, and put his looms to work on fall weaves. He can always find ready buyers in the larger cities. Knowing these practices, we put in our bid for some of his good things. We landed his highest grade taffeta ribbons and will offer them in our June sales FOR LESS than the manufacturer sold them to dealers two weeks ago.

It's becoming known in trade circles, that western jobbers are sure to be caught at the end of the season with too much of some one thing on their hands. Bunch the lot and you will find just what you are looking for, from some one of them at less than he paid for it. We found a Chicago jobber that tried to corral the market on the new chip hats. Everybody that wanted chip hats didn't trade there, and as season) and didn't get them because dealers ordered elsewhere and the jobber didn't unload in time. Now he seeks our assistance in distributing them. We have selected the best numbers and will offer them during June at retail for less than the Chicago jobber paid for them.

There are something like 200 flower importers in New York. We are personally acquainted with some of "the boys" who sell these lines. For their own advancement and through a friendly feeling for us some of these "boys" look out for us among the different New York importers for "snaps."

We caught one house with two hundred dozen flowers on hand. The price we bought them at is the only real secret, You can surmise, though, after you see what we will ask for them. Suffice to say, among them are a few of all the highclass French novelties that have retailed as high as $4 or $5 each. We won't ask more than $1 for any of them. "How do you do it!" you would say.

Very simple, Those New York fellows can't pay storage insurance, interest on the investment until next season, and then open up old stock on which "style" may place her taboo acknowledged to be up-to-date, progressive merchants. They save their reputations, their insurance, their interest on investment, their storage charges and help the hum of the hammer and the machine.

We like to adopt New York ways in so far as they are practical, common sense ways. These practices have "boosted New York to first place in the business world. We follow successful people. Will boost our place to first in its little sphere, and in doing so will do more for boosting Salt Lake than the fellow that trades town lots.
